7. Guest Speakers
   a. Shelby Pelon, Voter Registration
      i. Has been looking forward to voter registration for a long time. Her job is to help students get organized on issues on a campus, state, and local level. There is a large voter registration push happening now. There are so many issues that we can have a say in through our votes such as health care, higher education, and marriage equality. These are all issues that directly affect students. Your vote is your voice. Registering people to vote is simple to do and doesn’t take a large amount of time. The goal is to get 500 people registered to vote. This includes people who will do change of address so that their ballot can be sent to their local address. Will be holding a competition within the office to see who can register the most people. September 17th is Constitution day, so that is a great way to start off voter registration.

8. Reports
   a. Nick Fell, Superior Court Chief Justice
      i. Thanks everyone for being here today. Court will be meeting next week to figure out which committees the justices will be sitting on. They are also looking to set meeting times, which will be open to the public.

9. Reports of the Officers
   a. Kaleb Hoffer, President
      i. Appreciates every one being here; it has been an amazing week, but it would be nothing without buy in. Over the summer he has worked on the learning commons with other executive members and went downtown to look at chairs for the learning commons. He is also working with the Gateway steering committee and would love for others to get up to speed on that. Homecoming is coming up and he has been a part of those meetings as well. They are also looking to feel the book shelves here so that they can be used for things and have signage and promotional things for ASEWU.
   b. Becca Harrell, Executive Vice President
      i. Thanks so much for your participation this week; she is really excited to work with ASEWU this year and so is the administration. Her meetings have been similar to Kaleb; she has been attending homecoming, learning commons, and the hiring committee for the bookstore. Please get office hours for council to here ASAP, as the first meeting will be on the first meeting, and they need to be approved.
   c. Markus Hammond, Finance Vice President
i. Has been working with the learning commons and homecoming. As far as the first month he has been familiarizing with himself and get involved. As far as projects, he has been working on the ASEWU budget to make it more users friendly because right now there is a one month lag time. He is also building minor policies to help the flow of the budget so that there are less questions or hiccups in the system.

   a. Approval of $4368.62 for Promotional Items
      i. Discussion:
      1. Markus: Attached is the brief history of the costs for promotional items. The white page has our fiscal year budget and shows what we have budgeted for promotional items. The next page goes on to tell what we have ordered and the breakdown. Feel free to ask if you have more information.
      2. Kaleb Hoffer: These are the only promotional items, as the t-shirts were purchased with the money from last year’s budget.
      3. Markus Hammond: Note that even with this purchase there is still more money for the rest of the year.
      4. Becca Harrell: They have also received the promotional backpacks. This will never happen again, they just ordered then so that they could have things for orientation. This is in no way being pushed upon you.
