COMMUNICATION STUDIES

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS

CMST faculty designed this degree to offer you an exciting and fulfilling educational experience while simultaneously preparing you for a changing world.

The Bachelor of Arts in Communication Studies offers you two options:

1. Communication Studies and 2. Communication Studies in Public Relations. Each option provides you with an introduction to concepts in communication and the social sciences. These degrees are similar with the exception of the elective component. The Public Relations option requires 66 credits for completion and has no required minor.

The general Communication Studies option requires 59 credits for completion and requires a minor.

For the BA Communication Studies, you begin with two general introductory courses, CMST 207 Communication, Community and Citizenship and CMST 208 Mass Media and the Information Society. These are followed by CMST 309 Communication and Information. Another required class is CSBS 310 which introduces general social science concepts and methods.

As you progress in your education, you will choose one course from each of the emphasis areas of communication: Rhetorical and Cultural Studies, Organizational and Leadership Studies, and Language and Social Interaction Studies. In addition, if you choose the Communication Studies option (#1 below), you will choose a minimum of 14 elective credits.

If you choose the Communication Studies in Public Relations option (#2 below), instead of electives you will take JRNM 332, JRNM 451, JRNM 452 and JRNM 453 and either DESN 360 or DESN 368. Either BA option in Communication Studies culminates in a senior capstone course which allows you to synthesize your knowledge and skills.

All students are welcome to apply for a major in Communication Studies.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION FROM COMMUNICATION STUDIES ARE:

1. two years of one foreign language at the high school level or one year of one foreign language at the college level;
2. a minimum cumulative GPA ≥ 2.0 by graduation.

For transfer students, the Department of Communication Studies accepts up to 25 transfer credits, from comparable courses, toward our BA.

- Students are advised that the university GER requirements for Gender and Cultural Diversity and International Studies require additional courses that are not required in the degree.
- CMST 200 cannot be taken for credit toward the majors.
- The program has two degree options in the BA: Communication Studies and Communication Studies in Public Relations.

BACHELOR OF ARTS (BA)

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES—STUDENTS WILL:

- demonstrate an understanding of communications combined with skills in using contemporary technologies;
- present material in written, oral and multi-media formats;
- participate in community activities such as debate, internships or others that demonstrate applications of communications study and training;
- analyze the relationship between politics, economics, experience and communications media in international settings and will understand intercultural bases for communications;
- understand major theoretical positions and implications central to the discipline. Additionally, students will demonstrate competencies in at least two research methodologies.

The Department of Communication Studies administers the Master of Science in Communications and cooperates in the Master of Arts in College Instruction and in individualized interdisciplinary programs. Students interested in post-secondary teaching should refer to the College Instruction section in this catalog. The MS in Communications program is also described below. Proposed individualized interdisciplinary programs should be developed in consultation with a Communication Studies graduate advisor 509.359.4947.

MASTER OF SCIENCE IN COMMUNICATIONS

Student Learning Outcomes—students will:

- deploy various written, oral and electronic media in creating and presenting original work;
- analyze various cultural products through the application of contemporary communications theories and methods.

The Master of Science in Communications Program is an interdisciplinary professional program. It addresses the growing need for theory-grounded communication professionals in business, government and the non-profit sector, including: public relations practitioners, advertising writers, educators, graphic designers, consultants, training and development professionals, media policy experts, print and electronic journalists— and indeed anyone who must know how to create, manage and assess communication initiatives in a global environment. The MSC program offers students a strong foundation in communication theory and methodology and encourages application in such emphasis areas as organizational, technological, instructional and cultural communication.

The program is designed for career-oriented individuals who want to advance in their chosen fields or to move from their undergraduate programs to the competitive job markets. The MSC program’s rigorous coverage of communication theory and methodology also provides a strong foundation for those intending to pursue doctoral studies.

Applicants are admitted to the program throughout the academic year. In addition to the general university requirements for admission to graduate studies, applicants must submit the following directly to the MSC office: a written essay of no more than 1000 words describing their background and goals and how the program will help actualize those goals; résumé; at least two letters of recommendation. The MSC Director’s recommendation for admission, based on an interview with the applicant, is required. Applicants must submit a GRE general score; the verbal section score will be given special consideration. If an undergraduate statistics course is not taken before admission to the program, it must be taken prior to taking the research methods sequence. Based on their credentials and entrance requirements, applicants may be asked to take some classes in addition to the courses in the program in order to correct deficiencies. At least one year’s successful professional experience will enhance application.

Final Comprehensive Examination Options

Before the awarding of the master’s degree, each student will successfully complete one of two options: (A) a thesis or other research project; (B) a written examination. Both options also involve an oral examination component.

Option A
The thesis or research project will be selected in consultation with the student’s faculty advisor. Each student shall complete an oral examination, which will focus primarily on the master’s thesis or project but which may also include questions to demonstrate competence in all areas included in the program of that student. Students will provide copies of their master’s thesis or project to the oral examination committee at least two weeks in advance of the scheduled oral examination. The oral examination committee will consist of at least two graduate faculty members representing the interdisciplinary content of the student’s program and a third member designated by the Graduate Office. Students who select Option A are strongly encouraged to take CMST 569 Thesis Preparation.

Option B
The written examination is designed to test students’ competence across the breadth of their program. Over the course of 4.5 hours, the student will address questions on theory (1.75 hours), methodology and method (1.75 hours) and one emphasis (1 hour). The student will approach prospective committee members to ensure they are willing to provide examination questions. The MSC Director will provide copies of the student’s written answers to the examination committee at least two weeks in advance of the scheduled oral examination. The written and oral examination committee will consist of four graduate faculty members: two from Communication Studies, one of whom will chair the committee; one from a unit other than Communication Studies that contributes to the MSC; and a faculty member designated by the Graduate Office.

For options A and B, the final oral examination will be open to interested faculty and students and may be open to questions from non-committee members at the discretion of the committee. The final oral examination for option A will be no longer than 2 hours. The final oral examination for option B will be no longer than 1.5 hours. With respect to option A, the oral examination will not be held over vacation periods or during summer quarter except by advance approval of all committee members. The same holds true for the written and oral examinations in option B.

Option A minimum total
63 credits

Option B minimum total
63 credits
Communication Studies Courses

Terms offered: fall, winter, spring, summer (FWSU). If no terms are indicated, check with the department or EagleNET.

CMST 200 Introduction to Speech Communication (4) FWSU
Note: CMST 200 cannot be taken for credit towards the Communication Studies Major.
Analyzes verbal interaction, barriers to communication, effective listening and the application of fundamental principles to one-to-one, small group and one-to-many experiences.

CMST 201 Public Speaking (5)
This course is the study of the basic principles of public communication. This is a course in design, delivery, organization and presentation of speeches for public groups with an emphasis on informative and persuasive speeches, message delivery and presentation of visual aids.

CMST 207 Communications, Community and Citizenship (5) FWS
This course is designed to develop critical thinking skills as exhibited in reasoning and argumentation, with a further goal of examining how power and an individual's public voice can affect society. The course begins with a study of the rhetorical tradition of reasoning and argumentation, including elements of ethics. As the course progresses students will analyze, from historical to modern times, examples of individuals using their public voice and the resulting impact upon society. The course will culminate with students creating a reasoned ethical argument as a final project.

CMST 208 Mass Media and The Information Society (5) FWSU
Satisfies: GECR for social sciences, list 2, anthropology, geography, psychology and sociology.
This course introduces students to the range of historical, cultural, economic and social issues affected by the development and continued evolution of mass media. Books, magazines, sound and video recording, the development of electronic media and of the Internet provide the context for examinations of media uses and effects, media policy and law and social effects of media.

CMST 210 Interpersonal Communication (5)
This course is an exploration of the human communication process. It includes the perceptual and attribution processes surrounding messages, the construction of verbal and nonverbal messages, the functions of messages in interaction and the role of interpersonal communication processes on a variety of interpersonal relationship types.

CMST 250 Small Group Communication (5)
This course focuses upon theories, concepts and skills to improve small group communication with application to various task-oriented groups. This course emphasizes problem-solving, communication and participant-leadership skills.

CMST 300 Visual Literacy (5)
Cross-listed: DSGN 300
This course helps students develop the set of skills needed to critically interpret images of the past and present and produce images that effectively communicate a message to an audience. This includes an awareness of technology's role in the creation and dissemination of visual communication along with the role of persuasive strategies to target visual consumers. Students will analyze and produce rhetorical visual images and develop the skills needed to manage visual representation in a cultural context.

CMST 301 Political Communication (5)
How Americans use oral and televised communication to change their environment. Emphasis on American speakers in American political contexts. Topics vary.

CMST 305 Message Delivery (4)
Prerequisite: junior standing.
Analysis and application of message delivery techniques, focusing on voice and articulation, modes of delivery and style, communication apprehension, situational factors and visual support.

CMST 309 Communication and Information (5) FWS
An introduction to the history and development of communication. This is the first course in the communication major as well as the first course in communication theory. Topics include theory development, observation techniques, a survey of theories and ethical questions.

CMST 312 Nonverbal Communication (1–5)
This course is a variable credit course and will be offered from one to five credits. Topics that may be covered include the other-than-words side of human interaction within different cultures, genders, relationships and situations. There will be an emphasis on the basic theories of nonverbal communication and the interaction between nonverbal and verbal communication.

CMST 314 Gender and Communication (5)
Cross-listed: WMST 314.
Prerequisite: sophomore standing.
Satisfies: cultural and gender diversity university graduation requirement.
This course examines current research on the interactions among language, gender and communication in contemporary social and cultural contexts.

CMST 326 Debate (1–3)
Note: this course may be repeated for a total of 6 credits applied toward the CMST major or minor.
The in-class portion of this course teaches how to create, analyze and critique ideas and how to build or defend a reasoned argument. The out-of-class competition portion of this course includes individual events, such as informative and persuasive speaking and oral interpretation.

CMST 330 Integrated Methods for Communication Research (5)
Prerequisite: declared major in Communication Studies, Interdisciplinary Studies with a Communication emphasis.
An introduction to the core group of scientific methods and analytic techniques used in communication research.

CMST 331 Interviewing (5)
This course is an introduction to the principles of interviewing theory and practice. The communication components of interviewing are examined from both the interviewer's and the interviewee's perspective. Topics include the process of planning, managing and analyzing the interview. Then, a variety of topical interviews such as selection, performance, counseling, discipline, termination, focus groups, research, information gathering, information giving, media and client intake are examined through this process in an organizational setting. Provides hands-on experience in an organized communication context.

CMST 335 Conference Management (1–5)
Note: may be repeated up to 6 credits.
FWS
Satisfies: cultural and gender diversity university graduation requirement.
Study of the basic principles of face-to-face interaction in intercultural and cross-ethnic situations. Topics include perception, stereotypes, prejudice, world views, ethnocentrism, racism, the attribution process and uncertainty reduction.

CMST 336 Communicative Reasoning (5)
Logical development and support of arguments, analysis of evidence, briefing of arguments and practice in debate. In addition, this course is designed to prepare students to use practical reasoning applied to persuasive communication situations, to give students a general background on the basic principles of argumentation and to engage critical and analytical thinking skills in order to identify, understand and resolve communication problems.

CMST 395 Field Work in Communication Studies (1–5) FWSU
Prerequisite: permission of the instructor, department chair and college dean.
Directed student participation in the communication processes or problems of an industry, a political campaign or a non-profit organization.

CMST 396 Experimental Course in Communication Studies (1–15) FWSU

CMST 397 Workshop in Communication Studies (1–5) FWSU
Training programs or workshops emphasizing practical knowledge and skills. Topics vary.

CMST 399 Special Studies (1–5) FWSU
Prerequisite: permission of the instructor, department chair and college dean.
Subjects reflect recent developments in the field of human communication.

CMST 400 Message Design (5)
An investigation of message construction for large, public audiences. Stress on invention, organization and style. Includes speech writing and written message design.

CMST 410 Language and Social Interaction (5)
A study of language from two aspects: form and strategy. The formal study entails the examination of patterns, rules and structures of language, conversation and discourse. The strategy study focuses on the role of language and communication for accomplishing identity goals, relational goals and instrumental goals.

CMST 411 Negotiation Skills and Strategies (5)
The basic premise of this course is that one needs strong negotiation and analytical skills for effective communication. Hence, the goal of this course is to help the student to understand the theory of negotiation and to master its main strategies. The course will allow the student to develop negotiation skills experientially and to appreciate the nature and role of effective negotiation. The course is relevant to any student pursuing a career in a social science field since, as a working professional, the student will face many conflict problems that can be best resolved through effective negotiation.

CMST 413 Communication and Personal Relationships (5)
An advanced examination of the verbal and nonverbal communication processes in the development, maintenance, breakdown and repair of personal relationships, including romantic, friendship and family relationships.
CMST 416 Gender and Media (5)
Prerequisite: one WMST course or CMST course.

CMST 419 Sex, Sexuality and Communication (5)
Prerequisite: one WMST course or CMST course.

CMST 420 Health Communication (5)
This course surveys theory, research and practice in communication and technology along with issues of cultural literacy. Topics include clinician-patient interaction, family communication, group and organizational communication, mass media and web-based campaigns.

CMST 430 Communication in Organizations (5)
The study of communication systems, channels, networks and barriers; the role of communication in organizational assessment and change; the relationship between communication practices and organizational effectiveness, corporate image and credibility.

CMST 431 Communication Law and Ethics (5)
This course examines the legal implications on human communication, as well as the rights and responsibilities of professional communicators.

CMST 432 Media Systems and Communication Technology (5)
This course is designed to allow students to explore mass media systems and technology and their interaction with and upon society. Students will learn the historical perspective of media systems and technology along with issues of media convergence upon our lives, specifically upon our communication.

CMST 438 Topics in Leadership and Strategic Communication (5)
This course is a variable topic course focusing on leadership and/or strategic communication. Areas which might be covered include skills training, readings in the knowledge and techniques of leadership and the effective use of strategic communication. This course is designed to be both a theory and application course.

CMST 440 Global Communications (5)
Prerequisite: international studies university graduation requirement.

CMST 450 Rhetorical Theory and Criticism (5)
This course will survey contemporary theories of rhetorical communication and analyze areas of methodological controversy. We will discuss topics such as communication's role in defining humanity, power and communication, marginal groups and public discourses, gender/sex and rhetoric, evidence and public policy argument and the impact of emerging communication technologies on methodological applications. We will operate from the assumption that language reflects, selects and deflects reality in its construction of how we perceive the world.

CMST 451 Argumentation and Persuasion (5)
This course is designed to introduce students to a variety of theoretical perspectives and views of argumentation and to help students develop the skills necessary for effective performance as a producer and consumer of arguments. Students will focus on both logical development and support of arguments and effective persuasion in today's world. Students examine current texts and images to see how to create powerful persuasive messages. Students create and critique arguments and persuasive messages necessary for effective performance as a producer and consumer of arguments.

CMST 452 Cultural Studies (5)
This course is designed as an introduction to theoretical, historical developments and current issues of cultural studies as an interdisciplinary subject. In this course key topics in culture and cultural discourse will be discussed, such as language, representation, subjectivity, power, ideology, identity, modernity and post-modernity and globalization.

CMST 458 Topics in Image, Messages and Meaning (5)
This course allows students to learn effective visual and written communication in the creation of meaning. Students will be offered the opportunity to gain knowledge and build on this information by evaluating others' efforts at message design and then by creating their own effective image and/or message to convey meaning.

CMST 475 Electronic Surveillance and Privacy (5)
The course examines the social implications of a world in which everyday life is increasingly subject to electronic surveillance. The course begins with a survey of the theoretical and policy approaches to understanding the growth of electronic surveillance and its consequences. As the course progresses, students will conduct in-depth analyses of various modes of surveillance. The course concludes with a critical assessment of regulatory approaches to surveillance.

CMST 480 Pre-Internship Workshop (2)
Must be taken at least one quarter before internship. May be taken as early as the first quarter of the junior year.

CMST 481 Internship Workshop (2) FWSU
Must be taken at the same time as the internship, CMST 495.

CMST 490 Senior Capstone Seminar: Communications Studies (5) FWS
Satisfies: senior capstone university graduation requirement.
Senior Capstone is a required course for all students graduating with degrees in Communication Studies. Communication topics integrated into course content will include audiences, codes, interaction, power and influence, strategy, ethics, messages and contexts. In a seminar format and focusing on the process of relating to communication, the course will focus on the professional development of communication studies students. Students will also prepare and defend a portfolio.

CMST 495 Internship (3–15) FWSU
Prerequisites: CMST 480. Must be taken concurrently with CMST 495, permission of the instructor, department chair and college dean.

CMST 496 Experimental Course in Communication Studies (1–5) FWSU
Note: May be repeated for credit.

CMST 497 Workshop in Communication Studies (1–5) FWSU
Prerequisites: permission of the instructor, department chair and college dean.

CMST 498 Seminar in Communication Studies (1–5) FWSU
Note: May be repeated for credit.

CMST 501 Advanced Communication Theory (5)
This advanced course emphasizes the role of theory in the process of communication inquiry. The course covers a variety of communication theories and their reflection in the research of the field. In the course communication is analyzed from several theoretical standpoints: as message transfer, as practical art, as mediation by signs, as sharing of experiences, as socio-cultural order and as arrangement of power. The course shows how advanced theory can be used in the analysis of traditional and emerging communication contexts.

CMST 502 Contemporary Trends in Communication Studies (5)
Prerequisite: CMST 501.
A survey of the progress in research in communication theory and the exploration of the directions the research will take in the 21st century.

CMST 504 Communication Systems (5)
The course consolidates and extends existing knowledge of media and mass communications as institutions and sets of practices. The interlinkage of media forms, institutional constraints, ideologies, law and economics are explored as they affect the construction and interpretation of specific media messages.

CMST 520 Communication Inquiry (5)
This course is designed to provide students with knowledge of the history and philosophy of science. This course is the first in a three part sequence on research methods. This course provides the theoretical basis of research methodology.

CMST 521 Research Design and Analysis I (5)
Prerequisites: completion of a statistics course (undergraduate or graduate level) and CMST 520.
This course is designed to prepare experimental and survey methodology with a special emphasis upon knowing when to choose which method, how to apply the method and how to interpret the results. Computer statistical analyses are a requirement of this course. Information on how to write quantitative research reports will also be presented and students will be expected to write a quantitative research report.
